

Chapter 44

ARRESTED SHIP AFFECTING PORT OPERATION

Should the arrest of a ship in a port cause considerable and continued disruption to the operation of the port, the port authorities may remove the ship to a safe berth or in such other place as he think appropriate within its jurisdiction and not allowing the ship to sail away and keeping her under arrest.